

What is Private Duty Home Care?

As more Americans choose to remain in their homes while they age, finding the right type of at-home care for loved ones can be a challenge. Private duty home care provides a secure, quality, and affordable option for families.

A private duty home care company offers home care aides, companion care, homemaker services and in some cases nursing services within a client's home or place of residence. The caregivers provide a wide variety and range of services that are needed by a senior or families in order to allow an aging person to remain at home.

Private duty home care offers many unique benefits and provides peace of mind and security to you and your loved ones. HCAOA member agencies directly employ, screen, train and bond their caregivers. In addition, they handle all scheduling and payroll management. They offer the benefits of 24/7 on-call availability, caregiver monitoring and individualized care plans. Payments for care are paid privately, as opposed to through Medicare.

To find an agency in your area turn to the Home Care Association of America (HCAOA), the nation's leading association for providers of private duty home care. They have a searchable database to provide consumers with a comprehensive list of HCAOA members nationwide.

You deserve the peace of mind, trust and security that working with a member of the HCAOA can provide. All HCAOA members must adhere to the organization's policies, procedures and ethical standards for home care.
