

The alliantgroup would like to provide clarity on recent events and reiterate our ability to serve our current and future clients. There has been a lot of speculation and misinformation regarding the events of last week and we wanted to be fully transparent with all of you.

Last Friday, the IRS made a request for information at our building. No other agencies were involved. They did not reveal what information they were seeking but we have fully complied with their request. They did not seize any laptops or servers during their visit as we readily provided all the information we had available.

The agency has provided no other details to us or to anyone else, so any reports otherwise must be taken as erroneous. We can assure you that there has not been any interruption of ERC services. alliantgroup remains committed to our Raving Fan mission and will continue to deliver the most rigorously tested and highest quality product in the industry.

For 20 years, alliantgroup has been the nation's leader in providing credits and incentives to small and medium sized businesses. Our audit sustention rates are the best in our space and that is largely due to the rigor of our process and the four former IRS commissioners that we employ to oversee our work. We are committed to making sure every client gets the highest level of service.
